It may easily be introduced into the bill of fare in such quantities as to serve as the chief source of nitrogenous food and may be made a substitute for other nitrogenous foods when such substitution is desired. The results of these studies have been brought together with a view to making them helpful to all interested in the subject, but particularly to housekeepers.

The Housekeeper's View.

From the standpoint of the housekeeper, cheese is of importance because of its high nutritive value, particularly its high percentage of protein or muscle-forming materials because of the ease with which it can be kept and prepared for the table and because of its appetizing flavor and of the great variety of ways in which it can be served.

From the point of view of agriculture, cheese is an important commodity. The latest census figures available show that considerably over 300,000,000 pounds are made yearly in the United States, the value of the product being nearly $23,000,000, and the amount of money invested being over $6,000,000. The figures quoted are from the census report which first reported the details of the cheese industry from those of the butter and condensed milk industries. From earlier studies available, however, it is fair to judge in general that the development of any one of these industries from the figures given for the three industries combined. In general, these figures show that there was a great leap forward in the three industries in the decade between the years 1890 and 1900 and that since that time there has been a continuous, steady, healthy growth in the business of cheese making.

CHEESE AND ITS ECONOMIC USES IN THE DIET

Cheese is believed to be the oldest of the dairy products and the first form in which milk was preserved for future use. One may conjecture that it owes its origin to the accidental storing and ripening of sour milk curd. Although it has been a staple food with many races for untold years, there is a widespread belief that it is suitable for use chiefly in small quantities as an accessory to the diet, and that in large quantities it is likely to produce physiological disturbances. We are inclined, therefore, to think of those who made cheese one of the chief articles of their diet as being driven to this course by necessity, rather than being led to it by choice.

Because of these opinions extensive studies have been carried on, as a part of the department nutrition investigations, of the food value, therapeutic or dietetic value, ease of digestion, physiological effect, and special character of cheese, as food as well as of methods which are followed in preparing it for the table. The conclusion drawn from this extended study is, in brief, that cheese properly prepared and used is not generally a cause of physiological disturbances, and that

As might be expected, the amount of the product and the amount of money invested have increased rapidly during the decade, indicating that as in most manufacturing industries, labor-saving devices and other improvements have reduced the proportion of physical labor required.

As regards the kind of cheese made in the United States, the figures show that of the amount produced in 1905 approximately three-fourths was what is known to the trade as standard factory cheese, or what is usually known to the retail purchaser as American cheese. A very small percentage, 14 per cent, was sharp milk cheese, the remainder being American modifications of certain important foreign brands, Neuchâtel, Camembert and others.

The Dealer's View.

From the standpoint of the retail dealer, cheese is important because it is a convenient article to handle, its percentage of nutrients being high and its percentage of water low; it is not bulky, it is comparatively easy to store, to preserve in good condition, the difficulty of cutting exact amounts called for by customers may be considered the chief inconvenience. Efforts have been made to obviate this difficulty by making small cheeses. Experiments have been reported from

CZAREVITCH ALEXIS.

His Russian throne, whose life was despaired of for some time recently. He is reported to be much improved now.

The Oregon Experiment station on the making of cheese in pound lots, and from the Wisconsin Experiment station in making cheese in small lots, in which butter is commonly sold, in some of the factories cheese weighing about five pounds and having the same shape as the larger cheeses are made. These are convenient for use in families where a large amount of cheese is eaten, and furthermore cheese in such form dries out and spoils less quickly and easily than cheese cut in wedge shaped slices, as it usually is when sold by the pound.

The sale of cheese in pots is another way of overcoming the difficulty of cutting exact amounts. Cheese thus prepared is, as a rule, softened by the addition of butter fat or other fat, with the idea of making it of such consistency that it can be used like soft cheese.

There is something to be said, also, of the value of cheese to that not inconsiderable number of individuals who must occasionally cater to themselves, those men and women in business life, for example, who find it convenient neither to carry lunches nor to go to restaurants. For these people cheese offers a convenient way of supplying the necessary protein for their usually less than ideal condition in any neighborhood. Combined with crackers, some of the ready-cooked cereals, or bread, and with fruit, it makes a fairly well balanced meal.

STORMY SESSION ON WALL STREET

EXCITEMENT—CENTERS ON UNION PACIFIC

All Stocks Reach New Levels for Period of Several Months

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Wall street went through one of its most exciting days of the year today. Leading stocks sold at quotations approaching the high record of 1911 and the 25 active railroad and industrial issues, which made up the usual table of averages, only escaped by a narrow margin from reaching their low level for that period.

Excitement centered chiefly about Union Pacific, which had shown marked weakness ever since the supreme court's decision ordering its divestiture from Southern Pacific. Sales of Union Pacific today aggregated 235,000 shares, or about 20 per cent of the total business. The stock sold off to within a point of its low price recorded early in the year.

Sales of United States Steel were most extensive, approaching 300,000 shares, but the support accorded that stock at critical periods of the session resulted in only a nominal loss for the day. Banking was the third most active issue, with a substantial net loss. Combined offerings of these three stocks comprised about 60 per cent of the total output of 1,250,000 shares.

Many Rumors Afloat.
While Union Pacific was declining, countless rumors were current, none of which, however, threw any light on the situation.

The fact that Chairman Lovett and other Harriman officials were in Washington conferring with representatives of the government, presumably in connection with the merger decision, was not known in Wall street until the end of the market session.

The rumors associated with the Harriman project declined to disappear the action of Union Pacific in the stock market beyond a statement of opinion that the selling appeared to have occurred in the aftermath of an aggressive bear party.

Among these extraordinary rumors of the day was one that Union Pacific's continued weakness and today's special decline reflected the completion of a plan to acquire all the outstanding shares of the company.

Annual Report Issued.
Union Pacific's annual report, issued during the day, offered comfort to investors by showing a net profit of $1,000,000. The report showed a net profit of $1,000,000, or 10 per cent of the common stock, compared with a net profit of $1,000,000, or 10 per cent of the common stock, compared with a net profit of $1,000,000, or 10 per cent of the common stock.

There were persistent reports that the merger decision might result in a complete reduction of the Union Pacific dividend, or indeed such drastic measures might not be altogether suspended. Under the merger plan, the dividend would be reduced from 10 per cent to 5 per cent.

Mr. Taft is considered the best offer for the position of president of the Yale law school. He is already a member of the Yale corporation, and his desire to return to Yale has been weighed against his wish to go back to Cincinnati, Ohio, to his shingle.

Edward John Phelps, who last held the Kent professorship, died in 1900. He was a distinguished lawyer and an active Democrat. Under President Fillmore, Mr. Phelps was appointed secretary of the treasury, and in 1880 was president of the American Bar association. In the same year he was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor of Vermont, his own state. He was made minister to Great Britain by President Cleveland in 1885, and served until the end of that president's first term. The Kent endowment pays $5,000 a year.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 11.—President Taft, who did not deny to-day that there has been an informal conference on the subject of President Taft's coming to the Kent professorship at Yale, did say, however, that the matter had not been formally acted upon in any way.

FRENCH AVIATOR BREAKS WORLD'S ALTITUDE RECORD

TUNIS, Dec. 11.—The world's altitude record for aeroplanes was broken today by Roland G. Garros, the French aviator, who ascended 5,801 meters (approximately 19,022 feet high). The flight lasted 1 hour, 11 minutes, six seconds, and was carried out in clear weather.

Introduce Bill to Prevent Marriage Whites and Blacks

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—A denunciation of the legal procedure under which the term "white" is defined, which is based on the color of the skin, was made today by Representative Roddenberry of Georgia. In favor of a resolution, he had introduced to prohibit intermarriage of whites and negroes.

The measure, a direct result of the recent marriage of Dick Johnson, the negro musician, with a white girl, did not get to vote but it enlisted a full day's proceedings and incidentally aided in a filibuster by Representative Goldfinger of New York, that sent the House adjourned until January.

Mr. Roddenberry prophesied that the legal definition of mixed marriage would ultimately bring this country to a conflict.

In Chicago, it was not only the white girls of this country, but the white girls of all American cities, who are being seduced by the laws of the state and seduced by a man of the marriage ceremony.

SUES SON TO COMPEL THE RETURN HUSBAND'S ESTATE

DENVER, Dec. 11.—The suit of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Comerford, an aged Denver woman, against her son, John J. Comerford, in which she seeks to compel him to return $5,000 which she claims belongs to the estate of her late husband, J. J. Comerford, is being heard in the district court today. John J. Comerford is a telegraph operator employed by the Denver & Rio Grande railroad near Pueblo.

Mrs. Comerford, who has been married for many years, claims that her son, John J. Comerford, has been using the $5,000 for his own purposes, and she seeks to compel him to return it to her.

Bankers Are Angry at Delay in Investigation Money Trust

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—An irate group of New York bankers and bankers surrounded Senator Undermyer, counsel for the banking and currency committee of the house, when the committee adjourned its "money trust" hearing late today, and demanded that they either be excused or placed on the stand at once.

The New York men have been in Washington since Monday, and they were told tonight by Mr. Undermyer that they would have to wait their turn for examination.

In the group waiting to testify were Rudolph A. Koppeler, former president and member of the law committee of the New York Stock exchange; George W. Kelly, secretary of the exchange; Frank Sturges and Frank G. Milburn, of counsel for the exchange, and the following bankers: Walter Taylor, Henry K. Bonney, Samuel F. Street, P. J. Goodhue, and W. Turner, John H. C. Ashcroft, president of the New York Produce exchange, is also waiting examination.

Smart Over Delay.
Those men said that business and personal matters of great importance demanded their presence in New York, and they objected strenuously to being held while Mr. Undermyer developed his line of examination. Mr. Undermyer said he had told each witness as nearly as possible when he would be called, and asked them to arrange the matter.

THOUGHT M'NAMARA VICTIM OF FRAMEUP

Hold Dynamite Witness to Federal Grand Jury on Perjury Charge

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 11.—Inquiry as to whether John J. McNamara, after his arrest and before he pleaded guilty to causing explosions, was known to President Frank M. Ryan and other officials of the Iron Workers union was pursued by the government in its cross examination of defendants at the dynamite conspiracy trial today.

Michael J. Cunnane, Philadelphia, testified he took part in a public demonstration managed by labor unions, Philadelphia, as a protest against McNamara's arrest and then he assisted in raising a $200,000 defense fund for the McNamara brothers. He also said he wrote letters to J. J. McNamara after the latter was confined in jail. Los Angeles. He said he was unable to recall the contents of this correspondence, but he would send to Philadelphia and produce the letters in court.

"Did you make any investigation of the reports from President Ryan as to whether McNamara was kidnapped and that the prosecution was a frameup by the authorities," asked District Attorney Miller.

"I knew only what I learned from Ryan and Hockin," answered Cunnane.

Believes Officials Uninformed.
"Did you believe after McNamara was taken to California and charged with murder and before he pleaded guilty to dynamiting that Ryan and Hockin had any knowledge as to his guilt or innocence?"

"I believed so then."

"Do you believe now that they had that knowledge then?" asked Anderson.

"No, I don't now believe they did." Cunnane said he did not oppose McNamara's reelection as secretary at the Iron Workers convention in September 1911, while McNamara was in jail. He also testified he received a letter from Ryan saying in reference to members of the National Erectors association.

"You are to use the funds in a manner that will delay or add to the cost of the work," but he denied that it implied the use of violence.

Frank K. Painter of Omaha testified that 60 days before an explosion, Omaha on July 21, 1910, he wrote McNamara that "there are no jobs within 10 blocks of the job," and the soon after the explosion, he sent McNamara newspaper clipping giving account of it.

After another explosion in Omaha on March 24, 1911, six months after the Los Angeles Times building was blown up, he testified, he sent another newspaper account.

Sent Clipping as News.
"Knowing that a man known as R. Bryce and others called Schmi and Caplan were being sought on the Pacific coast, still that Omaha explosion caused you to make no investigation and you sent the clipping merely as a matter of news, did you ask Mr. Miller."

"I did not know much about it," was being sought on the coast and did send the clipping merely as news," said Painter.

Painter said that about 30 days before the last explosion, McNamara wrote him, "You know you can't do anything, I will be on the job." McNamara was arrested the month after the explosion.

John H. Barry, St. Louis, testified that as a member of the executive board of the Iron Workers international union, he audited the account of McNamara, the secretary, but denied knowing that any of the funds was used for dynamiting. He said he visited St. Louis before the explosion took place there in June, 1910, and he went to Cincinnati, where he said to Edward Clark, now a confessed dynamiter, about union conditions in Cincinnati, but he asserted he knew nothing of any proposed explosions.

Ortle E. McManis had confessed that he caused the Omaha explosion. William H. Quigley of Detroit, of the International Association of Joiners and Carpenters, who today was held to a federal grand jury on the charges of perjury, as a witness for the defense, later was released on $2,000. Quigley is not a defendant at the trial.

CROUPEY COUGHS AND WHEE COLD.
The quickest, simplest way to rid children of dangerous croupy cough and wheezy stuffy nose is to give Dr. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It gives almost instant relief and stops cough promptly. It soothes and helps contain no opiates. H. L. Blomquist, Esquire, Wis., says: "My wife coughs and wheezes. Dr. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is the best cough remedy I have ever used." CONCLUDE HEARINGS ON RAILWAY INVESTIGATION
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Hearings were concluded tonight by the subcommittee on the O'Shaughnessy resolution to provide for a congressional investigation of a proposed agreement between the New York, New Haven and Hartford and Grand Trunk railroads, which is alleged to have resulted in the suspension of work on the Southern New England railway.

E. A. Walker of Washington, appeared at the request of Chairman Henry to discuss the application of Sherman law to the case, suggesting that if the Grand Trunk as a result of an agreement with the New York and New Haven had abandoned construction of Southern New England after securing franchises from the states in apparent good faith, the only way Congress could afford relief would be by enacting legislation forbidding the Grand Trunk Canadian corporation to do business in the United States until it had cleared out its promises.

Five Heroes of Sport for 1912 Led by Jim Thorpe and Joe Wood

Here are the five greatest heroes of 1912 sportdom. Jim Thorpe of Carlisle ranks first. Not only did he shine in the intercollegiate track meet and win the all-round championship of the A. A. U. but he also won the pentathlon and decathlon at the Stockholm Olympic and was the greatest point man in football among the college football players. Joe Wood should come next. He made a remarkable record as a pitcher for the Boston Red Sox and contributed largely to the victory of the American leaguers in the world's series. Willie Ritchie by his victory over Ad Wolgast in the battle for the lightweight title, crown lands in third place. Charles Brickley, the great Harvard half-back, is entitled to fourth place because of his wonderful kicking and all-round playing while Christy Mathewson also gets a place in the hall of fame by virtue of his sterling work against Boston in the world's series—pitching that was all the more remarkable by reason of Mathewson having been a big league hurler for 11 years.
